Jeff Silberman

In 2004, Jeff Silberman became president and CEO of Carleton Management, Inc., his family's real estate investment, management and development business.

Jeff was previously affiliated as a business lawyer with the San Diego law firm of Solomon Ward Seidenwurm & Smith. He joined the firm in 1986, became a partner in 1989, and then became its youngest managing partner in 2000, a position he held for three years.

In 1979, Jeff graduated from the University of California, Berkeley with honors, in economics, and earned his law degree from the University of California, Los Angeles in 1982, where he was a member of the UCLA-Alaska law review.

Jeff is a graduate of The Wexner Heritage Foundation leadership program. In the community, Jeff is on the board of directors and Past-Chair of the Jewish Community Foundation of San Diego. He is a past president of Congregation Beth Israel, served as the chair of its Sesquicentennial Endowment Campaign and was the 2014 recipient of the Carl M. Esenoff Memorial Award for Extraordinary Community Service. Jeff currently serves on the board of the Francis Parker School, where he serves as the Chair of the board. He also serves on the boards of the University of California San Diego Foundation, Seacrest Holdings Corp., and the Boston University Dean's Leadership Advisory Board.

Jeff was born and raised in San Diego, the youngest of three children. Jeff and his wife Karen have four children.
